

I think allowing further consolidation of media is potentially anti-democratic. Looking at the media there has been very little discourse from the large stations concerning this issue; a case in point of why the rules of ownership should not be altered. We need more, not less, opinion and diversity.